Your account is now seriously past due and needs your immediate attention. Please call us to resolve the balance outstanding on your account. The Account Management Department has reviewed your account and is considering placing your account for collection. Collection accounts are past due accounts that may be listed with a credit reporting agency as a collection account. This action may harm your credit rating.

We have billed insurance, if provided, and any outstanding claim(s) has been processed. "What you owe now" includes balances currently due from you for hospital services with Sentara Healthcare. This is what the patient owes after insurance. This amount does not include any balances that may have been sent to collections. If you are paying by check, please write your Guarantor Number on your check and make your check payable to Sentara Healthcare. This will ensure your payment goes to the correct account.
